WARRIOR

J. T. Barber School is gaining prestige in North Carolina for its outstanding performance in sports, scholarship and music. It has achieved honors on the local, regional and state levels. In the sports field, it has produced such outstanding professional participants as Walter Bellamy '57, elected "Rookie of the Year" in the N.B.A.; Aaron Martin, outstanding player for the Los Angeles Rams, John Pearsall, professional boxer.

We are proud of the Academic records of many of our graduates. Russell Gould is an assistant teacher of Chemistry at the University of Long Island in Brooklyn, and William Gavins is a computer at the U.S. Naval Weapons Laboratory, Dahlgren, Virginia.

In the fine arts, Cleopatra Hargett, former soloist at Livingstone College, is currently teaching in the Raleigh City system, and Vivians Adams Huggins, is band instructor in South

Fulton High School. Atlanta, Georgia.

The students at Barber are justly proud of their achievements and honors awarded them and their school.

From earliest times ring adornment of the human race had been universal. There have been rings to indicate wealth, wisdom, love, rank and medical power just to name a few. Rings may be plain, engraved and decorated, or set with stones. J. T. Barber's rings, an original design, is of burnt gold centered with a large synthetic ruby stone flanked on the right by Minerva, the goddess of Wisdom, Science and the arts, and on the left by a mighty Warrior, representing Valor, which signifies courage, audacity, and dauntlessness.

We, the students of J. T. Barber High School, deem it an honor to be recipients of this ring and consider the ideas for which it stands keys for a successful life.

The 1965 Warrior

*J. T. Barber High School
New Bern, North Carolina*

*Co-Editors      Walter Adams
                         Ronnie Nixon*

We the members of the class of 1965, have selected a very cherished symbol for our theme - the ring. We are especially impressed with its noble appearance and what it signifies. We realize that the recipients of this ring should ever be mindful of the fact that this ring is not to be measured. According to its intrinsic value, but the true warmth should be its real significance measured by achievement through laborious works. Remember that awards are received and worn for meritorious accomplishments. The ones who are honored to receive this ring should be fully aware of the many factors that contributed to the first milestone in their education. Among the most influential in preparing us for this esteemed attainment are our devoted parents, dedicated teachers, and interested counselors. As you turn the pages of this annual be cognizant of the fact that we have attempted to depict through pictures and narration the life at Barber High as well as the accomplishments and aspirations of the members of the Class of 1965.

To the Warriors of 1964 . . .

To the Warriors of 1964 who spent many afternoons and evenings working together, striving for fitness, practicing sportsmanship, fighting for victory, and learning new formations unknown to their rivals, do we pay tribute. The sacrifices that you made, the long hours of hard work, and the many sleepless nights you experienced, have not gone unnoticed. We are proud of you, and feel as though you have done much to gain recognition for J. T. Barber High School. Although you did not succeed in becoming the state champion, the goal to which you aspired, you stood your ground and realized that even in defeat you were strengthened. This success was made possible through the diligent leadership and faith instilled in you by your coach, Mr. Simon E. Coates. The yearbook staff proudly recognizes your prowess, your perseverance, and your loyalty to J. T. Barber. To you, we dedicate our 1965 edition of the "Warrior."

An accurate knowledge and understanding of the mother tongue is an essential asset in today's society. More than ever before, it is necessary for one to be able to express himself clearly and correctly to reach desired goals. Because a person is measured by the way he expresses himself, basic principles of self-expression are taught.

Theory, Experiments, and Demonstrations Characterize This Department

Ever since Aristotle applied the scientific method to the phenomena of his environment men have had an insatiable desire to cast light on the mysteries of nature. Today the science department of Barber furthers this pursuit by giving incentive and a firm background in modern scientific concepts to some of the researches of tomorrow. Both in classroom discussions and laboratory experimentation, the enlightening guidance of the science teachers paves the way toward an inconceivably wonderful future.

The practical and scientific knowledge acquired through Home Economics will enrich the lives of those who avail themselves of the course. Industrial Arts and bricklaying are established for the purpose of stimulating interest among those interested in manual training as well as mental. Within the walls of the industrial and bricklaying rooms boys are learning to make a piece of leather or wood come alive and take form or construct fireplaces. These same boys may build our roads, construct our bridges or simply provide the ebony lamp, book ends or fireplace for our dens. No matter how large or small the job, their task is important for themselves as well as others.

The study of mathematics is valuable to students because it teaches them to think for themselves. Mathematics students at Barber are intrigued by basic mathematical concepts rather than primarily on manipulation skills. The mathematics department at Barber includes general math, Algebra I, II, III, plane geometry, and trigonometry. The rewards of a mathematics study are self-reliance and a sense of achievement.

Social studies students learn to avoid mistakes in the future by studying those of the past. American history teaches true appreciation of our country and its forefathers. With an ever-increasing ease of transportation and communication, it becomes more and more important for American citizens to know not only the background of their own country, but also the cultures of all countries of the world. Recognizing this need, our Social Studies Department is constantly taking strides in the direction of the understanding so necessary for today's universal problems. Social Studies includes citizenship, world history, and world geography.

Warriors Have Year

Having just completed their last game for dear ole Barber High, the faces of these four year men show signs of despair.

STEVE THOMPSON
End and Tackle

This season, even more than in previous ones, Barber High Warriors displayed adroitness and team work in football. Under the direction of the athletic director S. E. Doates and assistants, R. Wilson and A. Attmore, the warriors terminated their year successfully by capturing the Eastern District Title. Senior half-backs Moses Bryant and Earl Williams contributed much to the team's success by a total rushing yardage of 2,050 yards an average of 292 yard per game. In addition to being district champs Steve Thompson and Willie Edwards were unanimously voted all-state and all-east by sports writers and coaches.

Mr. Coates sums up the gridiron season in these words. "Although we did not succeed in winning the state championship, many good things were derived from the season. To mention only one, many of our boys are receiving full scholarships for college."

Warriors merit first place in district.

Team work was the cardinal factor of the Varsity and Junior Varsity basketball teams. Coach Coates and his boys strived for victory with every basket and mastered their way to the top.

Julian Martin, Robert Spruill, John Murrell averaged in double figures during the season. John Murrell managed the ball-handling and played an important role on defense.

After the first two wins Barber faced its greatest task with Wilson. They were not victorious in this vital game.

The entire season proved many of the players to be assets to the team--Fred Martin, Guard; Julian Martin, forward; John Murrell, forward; Steve Thompson, guard; Robert Spruill, center. Julian Martin averaged the most points per game, 18.6.

Well Balanced Team Strives for Perfection

The 1964 Baseball Team of J. T. Barber under the leadership of Coach Attmore played a ten game schedule. Due to a late start in practice, the Warriors finished a season with five wins and five defeats.

The Warriors of 1965 will be looking forward to a more promising season. The team is aspiring to go through a season with no defeats. The chances of having such a season are good due to the returning of such veterans as Moses Bryant, George Blount, Willie Drake, John Murrell, Willie Whitfield and Julian Martin.

J. T. Barber School is gaining prestige in North Carolina for its outstanding performance in sports, scholarship and music. It has achieved honors on the local, regional and state levels. In the sports field, it has produced such outstanding professional participants as Walter Bellamy '57, elected "Rookie of the Year" in the N.B.A.; Aaron Martin, outstanding player for the Los Angeles Rams, John Pearsall, professional boxer.

We are proud of the Academic records of many of our graduates. Russell Gould is an assistant teacher of Chemistry at the University of Long Island in Brooklyn, and William Gavins is a computer at the U.S. Naval Weapons Laboratory, Dahlgren, Virginia.

In the fine arts, Cleopatra Hargett, former soloist at Livingstone College, is currently teaching in the Ralieg City system, and Vivians Adams Huggins, is band instructor in South

Fulton High School, Atlanta, Georgia.

The students at Barber are justly proud of their achievements and honors awarded them and their school.

From earliest times ring adornment of the human race had been universal. There have been rings to indicate wealth, wisdom, love, rank and medical power just to name a few. Rings may be plain, engraved and decorated, or set with stones. J. T. Barber's rings, an original design, is of burnt gold centered with a large synthetic ruby stone flanked on the right by Minerva, the goddess of Wisdom, Science and the arts, and on the left by a mighty Warrior, representing Valor, which signifies courage, audacity, and dauntlessness.

We, the students of J. T. Barber High School, deem it an honor to be recipients of this ring and consider the ideas for which it stands keys for a successful life.
